Not long since, I heard a gentleman say he thought that if women managed their affairs in the right manner, they could find time to do their work in the daytime, and so have their evening to read, or sit idle, or amuse themselves as best pleased them. Now I would like to ask the sisters of the Woman's Department, if this is the way they do, and try to ascertain if I am so much behind the rest of my sister house-keepers, in my way of management; for I find it an utter impossibility to do all my work by daylight, with the wants of small children to be supplied, and my inability to hire any help; some things must be done by lamplight or remain undone, and if by planning my work in a different manner, I could have my evenings to myself, I like to read and inform myself, I should be very glad. Will some one please give me their experience that I may judge myself by them. Christmas is here and with it comes additional mental labor, to devise presents for our friends on a small allowance of money. icional mental labor, to devise presents for our friends on a small allowance of money. I wish some one would give so ne hints about something that can be made that is useful. I think very pretty napkin rings can be made of silver or gilt cardboard, worked around the edge with worsted, and initials worked on the side; an embossed in initials worked on the side; an embossed in a little boy would enjoy to the extent of his ability, is made by cutting leather or some strong material and stuffing it to resemble a horse's head; after putting-on buttons for eyes and sewing on ears, fasten it to the end of a thick stick, put on a bridle, and to the lower end fix two trucks, by boring a hole in the stick and put on another smaller er stick through for them to turn on, and when the little man gets astride he will think he is happy. I will close by wishing a merry Christmas to all the families to which the old FARMER is a weekly visitor.
